STAGNATION IN A MANUFACTURING TOWN. Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 15.-A dispatch from Dunkirk says that the outlook for the poorer classes in that city for the coming winter is anything but encouraging. The Brooks Locomotive Works, which are practically the life of the city, have steadily reduced their working force, which in good times numbers about 1,300, until now there are not more than 100 employed. The shut-down is not oc-casioned from lack of orders so much as from in-ability to secure ready money for finished work. The company would be running full blast if they could put their locomotives out on three and four-years time. There are but few manufacturing con-cerns in the city in operation, the engineering works being the only one running on full time. A few others are working short time, and a number shut down entirely. The streets are thronged with men out of work, while many have gone to other cities to seek employment. Washington, Nov. 15.—The net Treasury balance to-day declined to $88,088,974, of which $81,994,476 was in gold and $13,094,498 in currency. This is the lowest point yet reached by the Treasury, and, as aiready stated in these dispatches, it is not expected that the net balance will again rise above $100,009,000 without some Congressional or Executive action. For the first half month of November the expenditures so far have exceeded the receipts $4,000,000, and for the fiscal year to date, $36,000,000, in sound figures.

THEIR PERILOUS WEDDING TRIP.

CAPTAIN DRISKO'S BRIDE WAS WASHED OVER-BOARD IN THE STORM WHICH WRECKED HIS VESSEL-SAVED BY A STOUT LINE.

Captain R. B. Drisko, recently of the schooner Drisko, left this city for his home in Jonesport, Me., last night, with his bride, after one of the exciting wedding trips on record. Captain go to sea. He saved up enough money to buy the three-masted schooner Drisko, and then got mar-ried. The Drisko was loading at Charleston, S. C., with lumber and shingles for Jamaica. The Captain proposed that the wedding trip be made on the schooner, and the bride consented. They joined the vessel at Charleston, and sailed from that port on October 8. There were seven people, including Mrs. Drisko, on board. By midnight of the first spanker and mainsail. The seas were tremendous in the morning he started to run, and went south-ward until daybreak, when, as he says, seventeen hurricanes rolled into one struck him. He looked at his barometer, and saw, as he expresses it "shipwreck written all over it."

board, one of which was his wedding suit. He gave this to his wife to put on, and put on the other himself. He considered that Mrs. Dr.sko could make a better struggle in the impending shipwreek dressed in men's clothes than in women's. A big wave struck the schooner and threw her into the trough of the sea. A second wave finished the wreck and a third threw her on her beam ends. The Captain lashed his bride to an iron bar on top of the deckhouse and signalled to the crew to cut away the masts. They cut the weather rights, the masts broke off, and the vessel righted. She was waterlogged, and the top of her deckhouse was the only place where it was possible to exist on board. There all the crew had gathered, lashing each other to the iron bar.

Waves frequently broke over the deckhouse, and one of them washed Mrs. Drisko overboard. The Captain had tied her with a long line and the lined, so that by its aid the Captain and crew drew her back on the deckhouse again.

The next day was a continuation of the hurricane, but on Friday the gale abated. They had had nothing to eat or drink while they were lashed on the top of the house and now that the worst was over began to feel hungry. A saller dived down into the hold and brought up a can of vegetables, which they divided. A sall bag was found, and from it a big flag was made and holsted on a plece of timber.

TIVE OF OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. Charles S. Holmes, manager of the Binkers and Merchants' Advertising Agency, at No. 60 Broad-way, has been sued for an absolute divorce by his wife on the ground of alleged immorality, habitual drunkenness and cruelty.

Mr. Holmes is a relative of Oliver Wendell Holmes. Mrs. Holmes is a sister-in-law of Frederick J. Stone, of Dobbs Ferry, a nephew of Cyrus W. Field, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were married in November, 1889, soon after the young woman's graduation from a well-known academy in Madigraduation from a well-known academy in Madison-ave. They have two children, Charles S. Holmes, ir., eight years old, and Thomas Sylvester Holmes, five years old.

Mr. Holmes, according to the complaint, began to show an undue fondness for drink a few years after his marriage, and neglected his family to spend his time in undesirable company. Finally, it is related, he became a regular patient at hospitals, sanitariums and asylums where inebriates are cared for. He went to the Keeley Inatitute, at White Plahis, last summer and took a six weeks "cure." He refrained from drinking to excess for about three months after leaving the White Plains, last summer and took a six weeks for about three months after leaving the White Plains institution, and then began to drink heavily again. He is now in St. Vincent's Hoppital.

Mrs. Holmes bore with her husband as long as possible for the sake of her children, she declares, but finally decided to bring suit for divorce. She is now associated with Mrs. Cyrus W. Field in the millinery business, and is trying to carn a livelihood for herself and her two boys.

Gardner & Linehan, No. 37 Nassau-st., are attorneys for Mrs. Holmes.

"But he's not here to-day," was the answer. The vinter was obviously not satisfied with this statement, but, after a moment of hesitation she moved toward the door, outside of which the little dog was shivering, and paused for a minute on the threshold.

"You will tell the President," she said in the most approved tones of queenly manner, "that I have been here. Tell him that Queen Victoria called, and that she will continue to call daily until she gains an audience." And the little woman whisked away.

One of the astonished policemen said that "a representative of Queen Victoria" was the title given, but the other contended that the woman was the Queen herself, and the question of identity will remain unsettled until the lady calls again, when she will probably be taken care of.

loose from the dignified restraint which your epis coral office depands; and that you have induig I in another of those period-al tirales that have long wearied and mortified your co-religionists in this community. With the same assurance that once prompted you to foist your petty personality upon the attention of Pius IX, you now cantonly impose yourself upon the personal representative of his successor; and in a manner so motesque and in relevant that annusment would be the only result were it not for the impertinence of your action and the untruthtimes of your statements. The only notes of discord which arose in the hymn of thanksgiving with which the delegate was received came from your friends the Jesuits, German priests and bishops, and a few English-speaking prolates who wanted to cling to their exardise power. Apart from your insuiting attack open a gentleman who never did you wrong your recent tirade is nothing but the same old bundle of oft-thrashed straw that you have fialled away at since you turned back from the threshold of the Church of Rome. ADVERSE TO JOHN I. DAVENPORT.

DECISION THAT POSTMASTER DAYTON MAY REEP THE CHIEF SUPERVISOR'S LOOMS. yesterday, decided adversely to John I. Davenport his application for an injunction to restrain Post-master Charles W. Dayton from retaining possession of rooms Nos. 176, 176 and 178, on the fifth floor of the Federal Building. Mr. Davenport has the records of the Chief Possession of State of the Chief Possession of the Possession of the Chief Possession of the Ch the records of the Chief Supervisor of Elections in these rooms. Mr. Dayton, as custodian, took Now Judge Lacombe decides in favor of

Mr. Dayton. He handed down the following memorandum:

"While both as a United States Commissioner and as Chief Supervisor of Elections, appointed by the Circuit Court, the petitioner is an officer of the court, he is not, while discharging the functions of the office, a part of the court in such sense as to entitle him to insist upon being furnished with rooms in a building erected for the exciuative use of court and postoffice. As to the records now on file in the rooms referred to, the custodian of the building states that sufficient and convenient accommodation can and will be provided on the floor above, where exhibits, models and various other records of this court are now stored. That being so, it is unnecessary for the court to take any action in the matter. The application for injunction is therefore denied."

Mr. Dayton said he would use the rooms for storing records of the Postoffice, which are now scattered in four or five places. Mr. Davenport will be asked to have one of his cierks superintend the removal of his records.

Judge Gildersleeve handed down a decision yes-terday denying the application of Charles F. Wineh New-York Steam Company pending the settlement of his suit to have Wallace C. Andrews removed from the presidency of the company. Mr. Winch's suit has been pending a year. He charges Mr. Wallace with taking assets of the company for Wallace with taking assets of the company for improper uses, and with gross mismanagement of its affairs. In his opinion Judge Gildersleeve says: "While it is true that a Court of Equity will grant all relief to a shareholder which the nature of his case may require, it is, nevertheless, a well-settled principle that no interference with the management of a corporation can be justified unless such interference be absolutely necessary to the attainment of justice. Upon the facts as shown by the papers before me I do not think the motion for a receiver should be granted. All the material allegations on the part of the plaintiff are dented by defendant, and the evidence presented by plaintiff is not of such a preponderating nature as to justify the appointment of a receiver pendente like. The motion must therefore be denied, but without costs."

THE BALTIMORE WILL BE HIS PLACEHIP. The dispatch published yesterday stating that ommodore Skerrett, who was recently detached from the command of the Pacific Squadron, and who left San Francisco for China yesterday, was to have the Philadelphia as his flagship, was incorrect. The Philadelphia is now at Honolulu, and will remain there, but the Baltimore, which has been detailed as flagship of the Asiatic Squadron, is now on the way from Aden to Colombo, Cevion, where she will arrive on Saturday and remain a wrek. She then goes to Singapore, and is expected to arrive at Hong Kone, where Commodore Skerrett will meet her, on December 17.

THE WIFE ARRESTED ON A SECOND CHARGE. Mrs. Minnie Lange, of No. 140 Evergreen-ave., Brooklyn, was arrested by Detective Sergeants Von Gerichten and Trainer yesterday on the charge of pany of $3,000. Her husband was convicted in Brooklyn on Tuesday of swindling the John Hun-cock Insurance Company of $125, but the wife was acquitted of that charge. Lange was insured in the Mutual Life in May last, and in September his wife presented false proofs of his death to the com-pany. She was committed to the Tombs.

What is the use to state the unpleasant ymptoms of dyspepsia. The nutrition of the body depends upon the food. Yet the food may be right and the body not well nourished. That's only true, however, where there is impaired digestion-dyspepsiaaffecting the nutritive functions, affects the general health so much. That tells why dyspepsia means other illness so often. There is a harmless relief of dyspepsia, a general tonic for the system, too, in the genuine JOHANN Hoff's Malt Extract, which contains all the nutritious and tonic elements of malt ex-

Thomas, the architect, asserted that they had been built out fully to the stoopline and the alleged defect could not therefore be rectified. Tax Commissioner Barker replied that the architect's statement was unitue, as he had the stoopline measured. The trouble was referred to Mr. Barker, and he will employ a city surveyor to locate the stoopline.

"This armory has been a series of blunders and afterthoughts," said Commissioner Barker.
